

Manufacturing Advisory Team

Access Source Group's foundational support is established upon the tremendous experience and credentials of our Advisory Teams. Each of our advisors are highly successful in their professional career and more importantly are "World Class" individuals that see the unique qualities that Access Source Group strives so hard to deliver.

Mary Kay Korty

Mary Kay Korty brings a broad background in human resources to our Advisory Team with over 20 years of progressive human resource leadership experience with a Fortune 100 Corporation. In the most recent assignment her staff provided services to sales, marketing, engineering, finance, public relations and collaborated with manufacturing units. She has a business degree from Central Michigan University and an M.S. in Human Resource Development. She attended career development at the University of Michigan Graduate School of Business and professional development at the Center for Creative Leadership in Greensboro, N.C. She is a certified assessment administrator, assessor and a certified recruiter. She was involved in training, cooperative education and organizational development.

Throughout her career Mary Kay was active in such organizations as United Way and Old Newsboys fund raising, local area cooperative education coordinators, the American Society of Training and Development, corporate personnel directors, local area personnel directors and was an executive on the senior staff leadership team. She has been involved in benchmarking, targeted selection, organizational career development, managing diversity, needs analysis and many other types of professional, career and development activities. She brings to our team a lifelong interest in the people side of the business world and believes wholeheartedly that placing highly-qualified and enthusiastic individuals is crucial to successful organizations.

Mike Jackson

With over 22 years of Senior Level Operations experience and success, Mike is highly recognized for his expertise in the area of Operations & Quality. As the current Vice President of Quality & Service Operations, he has continually established himself as an Organizational Leader with a very developed track record of success in such diverse areas as Operations Management, Sales & Marketing, Customer Service Development and Organizational Leadership. His executive level experience encompasses domestic, international, Fortune 500 and start-up organizations like General Electric, Clearwire Technologies and Rockwell where he has championed the critical focus and value needed to improve both distressed and healthy organizations and move them to the next level of achievement.

Mike's professional and academic credentials include a Six Sigma Black Belt from his time with General Electric Corporation, training in TQM, Kaizen, and ISO-9002 quality processes and methodologies. He holds his BS degree in Business Administration and a dual Masters degree in Information Management and Business Administration.

Joe Blankhain

As a 25 year veteran of the Technology Industry, Joe is known for his tremendous abilities to understand, create & combine cutting-edge advanced technologies and applying them to real life business opportunities. His career spans leadership roles from within Fortune 100 companies like Motorola, TRW and AT&T to the creation of a very successful national technology consulting firm. He currently is the CTO and Senior Vice President of Emerging Technologies for an exciting growth-oriented technology corporation with responsibilities for all current development of next generation proprietary product sets and global product commercialization. He has his BSEE from the University of Chicago and his MS from M.I.T.

Our advisors are not employees of Access Source Group and are not legally bound to, or by, Access Source Group in any way.